THE STATE PRESS

The Republicans of Tennessee are gravitating toward their normal condition—they are charging one another with breaches of faith and violated pledges, and when the hair-pulling stage is reached Richard will be himself again.—Hickman County News.

It has been given out that Greene county is to have ten miles of additional macadam roads. This should complete a chain of good roads throughout the county unequalled by any other in East Tennessee.—Greeneville Sun.

After the national conventions are over somebody will probably propose the election of representative men to the legislature.—Knoxville Sentinel.

To our certain knowledge there were sent out in Sevier county on postcard day for home-coming week 000,000,001 postcard. Great is the enthusiasm of our people over a good thing.—Sevier County Republican.

Memphis sends Chattanooga all regrets for the loss of her auditorium. Still it is better to have had one and lost it than never to have had one at all.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

It is conceded everywhere that ignorance breeds vice and crime; yet in this age of our boasted progressiveness some of our citizens and even some men who stand officially high in educational affairs will contend that we must economize in our school expenditures. They say we must cut the teachers' salaries, that they may be had "for less". We say shame on a county that will spend $10,000 a year for courts and at the same time knock our schools which are our best and only efficient means to educate our boys and girls away from ignorance and crime.—Campbell County Citizen.

The average life of a bootlegger in Camden is so short that they begin to die as soon as they begin to live.—Camden Benton Countian.

A very strong effort is being made to locate the great government nitrate plant at Mussel Shoals, on the Tennessee river, at Florence. This would be an ideal place for the plant. Nature seems to have pointed it out for just such a purpose. It has the water power and the minerals required to make it a success. It is far inland and would be hard for an invading army to reach.—Mt. Pleasant Record.

Many of our teachers are at the West Tennessee Normal and others are attending summer schools elsewhere for the purpose of better equipping themselves for next year's work in the schoolroom. This is as it should be. No teacher can meet the present-day requirements without constant study and preparation. Those who neglect this work will soon go to the discard.—Brownsville States-Graphic.

Trabue Pleads Not Guilty

When Formally Arraigned on the Charge of Murder.

Trial Postponed to September Term of Court

Killing of Attorney Harry S. Stokes Recalled by Formal Court Action at Nashville

Nashville, Tenn., June 20—Charles C. Trabue, who shot and killed Harry S. Stokes, another attorney, in the latter's office in the American National Bank building, on the morning of April 26, was formally arraigned before Judge A. B. Neil in criminal court on a charge of murder, and pleaded "not guilty".

Upon motion of the attorneys for the defense the trial was postponed until the September term of court.

Trabue and Stokes were opposing attorneys in what is termed the city hall probe, a case brought in the chancery court by ten tax payers against former city officials. The taking of proof before a special commissioner had been in progress a year at the time of the killing. For several weeks, prior to April 26, verbal clashes between the lawyers in the case were of daily occurrence.

There were no eye witnesses to the tragedy. In a statement issued on the day of the shooting, Mr. Trabue said that he went to Mr. Stokes' office to request a retraction and apology for alleged insulting remarks made by Mr. Stokes. He claimed that Mr. Stokes attacked him and that he fired in self-defense.

Mr. Trabue made bond on the day of the killing for $20,000.

Ice Cream Man Says He Thought His Time Had Come

Had Acute Indigestion And Suffered for Three Days and Nights Without Relief—He now Swears By Tanlac

It is doubtful if there is a better known or more highly respected man in Knoxville, Tenn., than C. M. Smith popularly known by his friends as "Cal" Smith. Mr. Smith has been prominently identified with the ice cream business in that city for a number of years and holds a responsible position with the Mono Ice Cream Company.

Like lots of other folks, Mr. Smith used various other remedies with out obtaining relief and had virtually lost all faith in medicine at the time he tried Tanlac. His statement follows:

"About one month ago I had a very severe attack of what my doctor described as acute indigestion and several days I was a very sick man. It was the first attack of this kind I ever had in my life and I can truthfully say I hope I will never have another one.

"Shortly after eating one day I began to experience a very full and uncomfortable feeling in my stomach and in only a short time my stomach swelled up so full of gas I could hardly get my breath. My feet and hands got cold and clammy and my pulse was very weak. I had a kind of sickening, smothering sensation and was very dizzy. I don't know when I ever felt that way before. I just felt like I would give anything in the world if I could get one long, deep breath.

"I thought this condition would pass off in a few hours, and I would soon be all right again, but I got worse instead of better and decided to consult a doctor. He said I was suffering from acute indigestion and gave me a prescription, but the medicine failed to do me any good whatsoever. After suffering for three days and nights, I went back to see him and I told him I was compelled to have some relief. He said, 'Well, if the medicine I am giving you don't help you, I don't know what will.' A friend of mine told me about Tanlac, and I had already heard so much about the medicine I decided to try it.

"I then went down to Kuhlman's and bought a bottle and began taking it at once. This was on the third day. Well, sir, you can believe me or not, but I began to improve from the very first. It just seemed to be the very thing I needed and before I had taken a third of a bottle I felt like a new man. By the end of the week I had forgotten all about my indigestion and was eating and sleeping and working the same as ever. I went back the other day and got another bottle, for this is one medicine I want to always have in the house.

"This Tanlac beats anything I ever saw. I was down to Lenoir City the other day and told a lot of my friends about it, and they also told it was having a big sale down there. Nearly everybody in my whole neighborhood is taking Tanlac and they are all praising it. If anybody wants to know about my case, I will be glad to answer any questions at any time. The GENUINE TANLAC is sold in Maryville, exclusively by George & Mitchell, Druggists.
